Roma Women Crown Historic Season with Coppa Italia Triumph

Sport, 16.06.2026 [ENA]

AS Roma Women completed an extraordinary season by lifting the Coppa Italia, securing their second major trophy in just a few weeks after also winning the Serie A title. The victory confirmed the Giallorosse as the dominant force in Italian women's football and capped a campaign that will be remembered for its consistency, resilience, and team spirit.

Roma's journey to the Coppa Italia final was marked by determination and quality. Throughout the competition, the team overcame every challenge with the same winning mentality that had characterized their entire season. Reaching the final was the result of months of hard work, commitment, and collective effort from a squad that never stopped believing in its ambitions.

In the final, the decisive moment came thanks to the talent and leadership of captain Manuela Giugliano. Her winning goal proved once again why she is considered one of the finest players in Italian football.

Giugliano's technical excellence, vision, and ability to inspire her teammates were crucial throughout the match, and her decisive contribution ultimately delivered the trophy to Roma.

As has happened all season long, the team could count on the unwavering support of its fans. Even away from home, Roma's supporters made their presence felt, creating an incredible atmosphere and continuously encouraging the players. The team was pushed forward by the endless chants led by its most passionate female supporter, whose voice became a symbol of the bond between the squad and its fanbase. This remarkable support provided an extra source of energy during the final and throughout the season.

The Coppa Italia success arrived only weeks after Roma had already secured the Serie A championship. Their league campaign was outstanding from start to finish, the Giallorosse never truly lost control of the title race. Their consistency, quality, and winning mentality ensured that first place was rarely in serious doubt.

One of the greatest strengths of Roma this season was the unity of the group. The coach often forced several players to perform in unfamiliar positions, yet the team always responded positively. Every player was willing to make sacrifices for the collective good, demonstrating the cohesion and spirit that became a defining characteristic of the squad.

At the heart of this success was captain Manuela Giugliano. Beyond her technical abilities, she provided outstanding leadership both on and off the pitch. Her influence helped maintain the team's standards during difficult moments and inspired her teammates to achieve their best performances. The trophies won this season are a testament to her quality and leadership, and it is no surprise that she was deservedly named Serie A Women's Player of the Year.

With the Serie A title and the Coppa Italia now added to the club's trophy cabinet, Roma Women have completed one of the most successful seasons in their history. Their achievements were built on talent, teamwork, determination, and the leadership of an exceptional captain. The future looks bright for a team that has firmly established itself as the benchmark of women's football in Italy.
